The Irish Land Question.

LONDON, Jan. 31 .- Mr. Shaw Lefevbre, Liber al, spoke in the Commons yesterday on resolution for the Government to act as arbitrator in the Irish land question difference existing now on twenty-three estates only Three thousand tenants had been evicted from these and were living now on contribu tions from their countrymen in all parts.of the world. New tenants cannot be found to work the farms left vacant, and it was now work the farms left vacant, and it was now time for the Government to step in to arbi-trate the differences existing between the landholders and the tenants. T. W. Russell, Unionist, said that he was in favor of the principle of arbitration, but was very bitter on the plan of campaign which he maintained was the true cause o the trouble. It was designed to benefit the tenants only, in fact it aimed to bring on a social revolution. Would the tenantry stand by arbitration—did they do it in the case of the Gweedmore estate where Father McFad den made their terms and the tenants after wards repudiated them? The land court in his opinion was nothing but a court of arbi-tration. Mr. Baifour wanted to know who inspired the plan into Mr. Shaw's mind. Most certainly not Gladstone or Parnell. Nothing could be worse for the cause they advocated. The Government had no more right to interfere in the matter than they had to arbitrate the difference at pres-ent existing between the tenants and land-lords in England, Mr. Balfour bitterly at tacked Lefevbre for his abuse of the land He admitted that Clanricarde had faults, but they did not justify the organizing aunts, but they did not justify the organizing of such a revolutionary society as the plan of campaign is. The Land Court was remedy enough for the tenants. If he was a landlord he would rather beg his bread than submit to the plan of campaign. Mr. Tanner called Balfour a canting snob, but afterwards withdrew his remark. Balfour in closing said that if the Gov-ment was insane enough to propose such adopt it. Sir George Trevelyn (Liberal) said that Mr. Balfour's opinion would not influence the Irish people; that Mr. Shaw-Lefev bre was not a friend of their's, and that his measure was not introduced with the idea of benefiting them. It was important that the Government should find out the truth concerning the Irish land troubles and If the cerning the Irish land troubles, and if the landlords believed that the plan was already defeated it would not be wise to defeat Mr Lefevbre's resolution. The measure was de-

The War in Chili.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 31.-War news contin ue to filter from Chili into this republic, but It must be admitted, the information received seems to come in the main from sources fa vorable to the insurgents and unfavorable to the Chillan Government. Valdivia port or corral and the seaport town of Valdivia sixteen miles from the mouth of the Callacalla River are now blockaded by the war ves sels of the insurgents.

The Insurgents' warships are also blocked ing the Island of Chiloe and the Chiloe Archipelago, their ships patrolling the Gulf of Ancud and thus cutting off all communication between the island and the main land. One rebel vessel is lying off Ancud, the capital of the Island of Chiloe. Insurgent marines from that vessel have occupied Ancud. The Chiloe archipelago consists of about sixty small islands, with a population of 80,000 souls. The insurgent war ship which was anchored off Anoud recently left that port in charge of the marines she had landed and steamed away to capture another port. While this vessel was absent a ship having Government troops on board appeared of Ancud. She holsted the British flag and tried under that bunting to land the troops she had on that builting to land the troops she had on board. The insurgents, however, detected the strategem and opened fire upon the Government vessel. The latter re-plied with rapid fire of his big guns and small arms, but after a sharp engagement the Government vessel was disabled and had to leave the port of Ancud in the hands of the victorious insurgents. President Balthe victorious insurgents. President Bal-maceda is now said to have announced his willingness to negotiate for terms of peace with the rebels, who seem to be victorious on all sides. One of the stipulations insisted upon by the President, if the negotiations are o proceed, is that the Port of Valparaiso is not to be blocked while the parleying continues. The rebels, it is added, insist that President

Massacre of Spanish Troops.

LONDON, Jan. 31.—News is received here of another terrible massacre of Spanish troops and residents in the Caroline Islands. It appears that the natives without warning fell on the Spanish Garrison, killing some ninety soldlers and civilians. The Spaniards thereupon attacked the native fort. It is said that the natives fought with singular bravery, but were eventually driven into the jungle, where the difficulties of the Spaniards were increased, as the bush and undergrowth are very thick and the savages have sprinkled the ground with man traps, added to which their costume in war time consists of green leaves which make them very difficult to see against the green foliage. on the Spanish Garrison, killing some ninety while their superior size and strength and the fact that they are armed with Remington rifles and are as active as monkeys, placed the Europeans at still greater disadvantage. Nevertheless the loss on the native side is said to have been very large. No actual figures can be given, as the largest part of their dead and wounded were carried away by their friends. The Spanish commander, who is among the slain, was so mortified with the loss of his soldiers and the unsatisfactory condition under which he had to fight, that in a moment of frenzy he shot himself.

THE BODY OF SECRETARY WINDOM LIES AT THE FAMILY MANSION.

KIND WORDS SAID BY PROMINENT MEN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 31.-The body of the late Secretary of the Treasury William Windom arrived at the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad station yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. It was in a special car, which was attached to the regular train which left Jersey City at 11:30. It was met by a dis-tinguished assemblage of public officials, headed by the President and Vice-President and the Cabinet officers and wives, all the chiefs of Department bureaus, clerks and chiefs of Department bureaus, clerks and subordinates. They assembled at the Treasury Department and proceeded to the station in a body. Eight guards of the Treasury Department took charge of the casket and carried it to the hearse. There, headed by a platoon of mounted police, the funeral procession proceeded up Pennsylvania avenue to Vermont and Massachusetts avenues to the home of the late secretary. While the remains were being arranged by the undertaker the President and cabinet officers remained, and when everything was finished, headed by the President, the procession passed through to take a last look at the dead secretary. While the widow was kneeling over the casket the British Minister called and left a message of condolence.

Kind Words About the Dead.

New York, Jan. 31.—The death of Mr. Win dom cast gloom and sorrow over the Customs dom cast gloom and sorrow over the Customs Service at this port. Collector Erhardt was slient and sorrowful, but when he was asked to speak of Mr. Windom he said: "I had con-versed with him before the dinner, and he was in the best of spirits, stating that he was intending to pay the Collector's office a visit to-day, and he was to go over emigrant mat-ters with me, and also to discuss some other ters with me, and also to discuss some other official matters. He stated that he should omcial matters. He stated that he should stop at the Appraiser's stores on his way down town, and probably should reach the Collector's office about 2 o'clock. He said that he felt very well (in answer to some one who said he looked well), although one or two spoke to me afterward about it, saying that they had noticed be had perspired in the very freely.

Appraiser Cooper was much cast down by Mr. Windom's death, but he warmly eulogized his late superior officer. He said: "I had a great many relations with Mr. Windom in the two years I have been Appraiser, and I found him to be so fair, so just, so considerate and so wise in his official acts that his death corners to me as a great personal so: death comes to me as a great personal sor-row. He was a man of extraordinary ability, which was shown in the fact that a few years ago a banking concern offered him $20,000 a year to take charge of it."

FORESAW THE END. There are probably few men in the country who knew Mr. Windom or appreciated him better than Col. G. C. Tichenor, now Presi-dent of the Board of General Appraisers, and who was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury by Mr. Windom at the opening of the Harrison administration. Col Tichenor has been connected with the customs service since 1878. He spoke of Mr. Windom yesterday with great feeling as follows: "Since Mr. Windom has been secretary this last time I have been in dread of this very catastrophe as a possible result of the terrible tax and vast overwork that necessarily fails on a conscientious man in attempting to administer that great and overloaded department. The Treasury De-partment combines so much and such a variety of important and unrelated business as to make it impossible for any one head to administer it, and anyone who attempts to do so in a conscientious way, as I have said, will result in destroying himself, no matter how strong his mental and physical vigor. The attention to the legitimate duties of finance proper is all that should be required or performed with safety to the health and life of any man. So that all with the exception of that which relates to finance and revenue proper should be eliminated from the Treausury Department which would leave practically enough to create two other deas to make it impossible for any one head to Talk About Succession.

Washington, D. C., Jan. Sl.—The Government machinery has been practically stopped by the death of Secretary Windom. Aimost before the remains of the dead Senator arrived talk of his successor has began. Spooner, McKinley, Cannon, Payton, Evarts. Oglesby, Blair, Clarkson and Tom Platt have been mentioned. Clarkson's friends are here booming their candidate, and are doing apparently effective work. But he stands little chance of getting the place, owing to the fact that he has already espoused the cause of Gen. Alger for 1892, and it is well known that Harrison is just itching for a second term in the White House. McKinley is just now looking towards the Governorship of Ohio, and it is said he would not accept the portfolfo should'it be tendered him. Joe Cannon of Illinois is much spoken of, and the gentleman stands a very good chance, being a personal friend of the President. Harrison will, it is generally conceded, make the appointment that he thinks will help him to the Presidential nomination. He will not take into consideration at this stage of the political game of checkers the fitness of all particular man.

He was one of the ablest Secretaries that ever held the Treasury portfolio and he was one of the most estimable men in public life. He was exceptionally agreeable in manner, simple and unaffected, combining with his rare abilities a) sauvity and sweetness of disposition that mide him singularly attractive in all the relations of life. His public record, without the suspicion of a taint or stain, is one of which every American may well feel proud."

THE ACTS TO REGULATE RAILROAD RATES TO BE CONSIDERED TUESDAY.

Delay in the Appointment of a Co. tee to Investigate the Fee Offices Within the Governor's Gift-Senator Espenchied's Vote on the Force Bill

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 31 .- The Thirty-sixth twenty-five days of the seventy days fixed by the constitution for all but revising sessions. Thus far there have been fully 400 presented in the about 175 in the and the death knell of a number of these has already been sounded. The Committee on Railroads and Internal Improvement of the House has exercised a cyclonic influence in knocking out bills presented by farmers to regulate railroads and express companies. Nearly every bill thus far prebeen reported adversely, and the same fate is understood to be in store for many others.

ever, these bills may yet be called up and passed.

Tuesday next is set for the consideration of the batch of bills to reduce passenger and freight rates, and a large attendance is looked for by the committee. Among the bills on the committee's docket are the measures cutting passenger rates down to 2 and 2½ cents per mile, reducing sleeping-car rates exactly 80 per cent and regulating freight rates by lowering them nearly one-third. The railroad representatives insist that this is extreme legislation, and as the committee appears to be rather friendly to such corporations the probability is considered strong that they will not be recommended for passage.

TRLEPHONE RATES.

The Hawkins telephone bill is still in the hands of the Committee on Municipal Corporations, of which Mr. Perkinson, a Chariton County farmer, is chairman. As has already been stated this measure contemplates a reduction of nearly 50 per cent in the rates now exacted by the telephone companies of the State.

General Manager Durant of the Bell Telephone Co. of St. Louis and Manager Smith of the Missouri & Kansas company of Kansas, City were here yesterday to oppose the underground wire bill, but neither showed any disposition to say anything on the reduction bill. Mr. Durant said that his company would present its objections in due time, and would also place its wires underground as soon as it received its franchise from the Assembly, without being forced to do so by any State enactment.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES.

The bill receiving the most attention just now is that which aims to appropriate 4 percent of the school moneys of the State to establish teachers' institutes in every one of the 114 counties in the State. This does not apvalue of silver to $5, which, with the subsequent adverse silver legislation, compelled a cessation of operations in 1886. We have since had the mine patented. In it was locked up a great deal of Mr. Windom's money. As soon as mining is put on a par with the country's other industries we will resume operaply to St. Louis, however, as Superintradent of Public Schools L. E. Wolfe, the author of the bill, says the city needs none. In support of the bill he says that the institute plan is the only practical way of fitting the county teachers for the work excepted of them. try's other industries we will resume operations, and from the present temper of the people I think it will be reasonably certain. Representative Tom Masten is wondering what is meant by the Speaker's delay in appointing the committee of five to investigate the fee offices within the gift of the Governor. His resolution denouncing the fee system and providing for the appointment of a committee of five to inquire into the matter was adopted, but the committee has not yet been named. The bill to make the office of Coal Oil Inspector a salaried instead of a fee office in still in the hands of the Committee on Retrenchment and Reform. The opposition of the Governor and his friends is, as a matter of course, expected to this measure, but its champions say they will leave nothing undone towards securing its passage.

UNDERGROUND WIRE BILL.

The Senate Committee on Corporations remained in session until late yesterday afternoon hearing arguments on the Stone bill to compel the placing of electric conductors underground in St. Louis and Kansas City. Arguments were offered by Counsellor Bell of St. Louis, George F. Durant, manager of the Bell Telephone Co.; R. H. Bohle, manager of the Bell Telephone Co.; R. H. Bohle, manager Smith of the Kansas City Bell Telephone Co. and others. The telegraph, telephone and electric light companies opposed it, and Counselor Bell presented a modified bill, making it applicable to St. Louis only.

The beef inspection bill proposed by Senator Cochran of St. Joseph is expected to be introduced Monday or Tuesday.

ESPENCHEID'S VOTE.

Senator Espencheid has been subjected to some criticism on account of his vote on the Cochran resolution pledging Missouri not to appropriate a cent for a World's Fair exhibit in the event of the passage of the force bill. Senator Espencheid voted for the preamble denouncing the force bill but voted against that portion of the resolution. He explained that from his interpretation of the State Constitution he could not see how the Assembly could appropriate money for an exhibit. The Constitution on the contrary, he argued, expressly prohibited any appropriation for that purpose, and for that reason he could not vote on any proposition committing the State to make the appropriation, he held, practically committed the State to make the appropriation if the bill was defeated.

THE HEARING OF ARGUMENTS POST-PONED UNTIL FEBRUARY 12.

v. Johnson's Illness the Cause of the ostponement-Circuit Attorney Clover restifies as to What Lancaster Said About His Interview With Chief Harrigan-Chief Harrigan's Denial.

The taking of testimony in the action for libel prosecuted against F. D. White, managing editor of the Post-Dispatch, by Richard Lancaster in the Court of Criminal Correct tion was finished last evening. In the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH of Nov.2 the story of how Lan-caster got on the October Grand-jury and how nted indictments from being returned was told. This article is alleged to en libelous. In the testimony taken Thursday and yesterday Judge Green, who is trying the case, was informed that R. D. Lancaster was not summoned to serve on the Grand-jury, but his son was. R. D. Lancaster and procured a seat on the Grand-jury to which he was not entitled. The Grand-jury found ar indictment against Charles A. Gitchell for publishing lottery advertisements, which finding Lancaster induced the body to reconsider on false representations.

GRAND JUROR SCOTT TESTIFIES.

R. R. Scott was a member of the October Grand-Jury. He said he had a conversation with F. D. White concerning the Grand-Jury's failure to return indictments. This conversation occurred in Mr. Scott's office. He said Mr. White asked him if Lancaster, in moving a reconsideration of the caster, in moving a reconsideration of the indictment of Gitchell of the Star-Sayings, said that Maj. Harrigan had said that as Gitchell was a candidate for office and Lancaster was nent Democrat that Gitchell's indic nt would appear to be a political persecu

'Oh,' I said, 'it's town talk.' 'Don't you know that there is only one person that can present information before a Grand jury? present information before a Grand' July, he said. 'I suppose that is the foreman,' I said, and he said, 'Yes.' 'Now, who says I sam trying to indict Gitchell?' he asked again. 'It's fown talk.' said I. I was laughing and

'Maj. Harrigan, did you ever ask that tchell be indicted, or advise with any one "I did not, and any one who says that I did tells what is absolutely false."

Harrigan detailed a conversation with Mr. White on the matter. He had been asked by John A. Dillon, Jr., and by George F. Mockler, reporters of the Post-Disparch, concerning the matter, and afterward went to Mr. White's once to see him. Mr. White told him that Lancaster had it moving the reconsiders. Lancaster had, in moving the reconsidera-tion of the Gitchell indictment, told the Grand-jury that the witness had told him that Gitchell's indictment at that time would be regarded as a political move, as Gitchell was a Republican candidate for office and Lancaster was a prominent Democrat. "I told Mr. White," the witness said, "that if caster made that statement he lied,"

FOREMAN TREDWAY. Dwight Tredway, who was foreman of the Grand-jury in October, was called. He said that on the morning the Grand-jury was impaneled en or sixteen men answered summons for service on the Grand-jury. Lancaster's counsel had sought to make it appear that only twelve appeared, and in consequence Judge Normile refused to excuse Lancaster and he had been compelled to serve. #### POOLED THEIR STOCK.

The Adams Electric Co. Takes an Important Step. An important meeting of stockholde the Adams Electric Co. of Missouri was held yesterday afternoon in the offices of the United Elevator Co., at which the final action ecessary to complete preparation for the legal contest about to be begun by the newly organized Adams Electric Railway Co. of Illi nois was taken. The meeting was in response

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29, 1891.

DEAR SIR—A meeting of the pooling members of the Adams Electric Co. is called for Jan. 30, 3 o'clock p. m., at the office of the United Elevator Co., American Central Building. Pool trustees are to be elected and a contract with them to be signed. Please bring your certificates of stock with you. Respectfully,

PURPOSE OF THE MEETING.

The meeting was organized by the election of Hon. Seth W. Cobb as chairman and Ewing fill secretary, and the object for which the stockholders had been called together was then explained by the chair. A copy of the "pool trust certificate" to be signed was shown before any definite action was taken. This paper was in the form of a receipt for stock to be signed by there are a trustees. stock, to be signed by three pool trustees, and embodied the terms of a contract entered into between the stockholders pooling their stock and the pool trustees to whom it was surrendered, also giving the reasons for the formation of such a pool.

The document set forth that the shareholders of the Adams Electric Co. were de noiders of the Adams Electric Co, were desirous of realizing for themselves, and all the other stockholders of the company as large returns as possible from a sale by the company of two of its patents issued by the United States to Wellington Adams, one of which letters patent was No. 300,827 and dated June 24, 1884, and the other, No. 300,828, and of the same late; that the amount so to be realized would depend in a great degree upon the result of litters to involving the breath and the artest of tigation involving the breadth and extent of such letters patent; that it was essential that the greater part of the stockholders of the ompany should act in unison in order to effect the purposes stated, and that a number of years might elapse before the result of such litigation could be asceratined, and that a sale of shares made by individual stocksale of shares made by individual stockholders would probably have a tendency to interfere with the successful conduct of the litigation to establish the patents, and would also depress the price of shares. In order therefore that the rights of all the stockholders might be equally protected and for the mutual advantage of all, the contract bound the igning stockholders not to offer for sale any f the shares of stock of the Adams Electri Co. belonging to them or standing in their names, either upon their individual accounts or for others, up to 75 per cent of their stock respectively, for a period of two years, or un-til the agreement should be set aside by a vote of four-fifths in value of the stock held y subscribers to the contract.

After this statement of the reasons leading o a pooling of the stock the contract prorided for an assignment and transfer of hree-fourths of the stock signed to three rustees, who should issue in return therefo their trust certificates showing the terms of the trust and the several interests therein; that the trustees, or a majority of them, should have the right to vote all of the stock so assigned at all meetings of stockholders, and that in the event of the death, inability, disability, resignation or refusal to act of any of the trustees, the title of the stock should vest in the remaining trustees, and the vacancy be filled by an election by the Board of Directors. tion by the Board of Directors.

THE STOCK IN THE POOL. The three trustees elected to receive the pooled stock were Hugh Rogers, Francis E. Nipher and Isalah G. W. Steadman, and following their election the stockholders present signed the pooling contract and surrendered their stock to the pool. The signing stockholders and the stock represented in the pool were as

Rev. Alexander Douglas, pastor of the Woodworth flock at Fourteenth and Lucas place, is very much concerned over the ser-ious charges made against his moral characer by Messrs. Douglas sends the ollowing card to the Post-Dispatch: In the article in the POST-DISPATCH of Jan. 27, which denounced me, I demanded names, numbers, mes, places, facts and figures. I have times, piaces, racts and figures. I have waited patiently for their reply and evidence for several days in vain. I now repeat my demands. I insist and urge upon them to present at once the proof of the serious charges against my moral character. When the time comes if necessary I can prove that every one of these assertions are malicious false-bods.

Rev. Douglas also charges that Mr. Wheel ion has been collecting money for the new Woodworth Tabenacle without being authortized to do the same. What the Novelist Says in Regard to the Allegations Made by His Wife-Detective Work in the Household and Its

New York, Jan. 31 .- The novels of Mr. Edgar Saltus have probably not attracted more attention than will the revelations about to be made in the suit which his wife orings against him for absolute divorce. The suit was filed on Dec. 10, 1889, alleging dultery, and naming as co-respondent a roung lady friend of the household and one of its frequent inmates. She is the daughter of Mr. William G. Read, a well-known and wealthy business man of New York, and he of contemporaneous American novels.

The first publication of the facts aroused he widest attention and gossip throughout he country, but for a year nothing has been the case. It appears, however, that it has been passing through the regular legal stages, and that numerous hearings have been had before Referee Theodore Connoily at his office in Temple Court. Lockwood Hill is counsel for the wife and John H. McIntyre for the hydrend

THE CONFESSION DENIED. It was stated at the beginning of the suit that Mr. Saltus had made a confession of his guilt and had fied to Europe. A few days after the publication of the summons Mr. Saltus returned to this city. He denied that he had made a confession of any kind, nature cription. He stated that he had gon abroad on a purely business matter, and he added that in leaving the city it was without such step in contemplation.

The proceedings before the referee have been held in camera, but Mr. Saltus discussed his defense and other features of the case yesterday with that unrestrained freedom which, it has been charged, is one quality of his provels.

"I was taken ill in London," he said, "and the fact of my illness was cabled to the news-papers here. As I subsequently learned, the initial proceedings were then begun. It was supposed that I was too ill to travel, and that supposed that I was too ill to travel, and that the suit would go by default. A friend was good enough to wire me what was going on, good enough to wire me what was going on, and in spite of the opposition of my physician, Dr. Butler, whose address, by the way, is Duke street, Portland square, I took the next ship home. To say that I was surprised at Mrs. Saltus' action is to put it mildly. We parted on the best possible terms
Mrs. Saltus even exacting a promis pass Christmas with her. When did return, Mrs. Saltus wrote me a very pret ty note in which she said it was all her fath ty note in which she said it was all her father's doing, and as for herself she fancied I would be happier as a bachelor. It was considerate of Mrs. Saltus to put it that way, and I could not but admire her taste and tact; at the same time, as her father had selected as co-respondents two entirely innocent young ladies of unblemished reputation, it was my duty to interpose an answer denying the allegations of the complaint and wait the action of the court."

SERVANTS' TESTIMONY.
Edgar Saltus did not have long to wait Edgar Saltus did not have long to wait. Referee Theodore Connolly was appointed to take testimony de bene esse and his former servants appeared before the referee. They testified that during the time they were in the home of the Saltuses they were employed by one of the plaintiff's relatives to keep a diary of his movements, to read his letters, listen at keyholes, to preserve the scraps of any correspondence they could gather or purloin, and whenever he received a visit, to exercise the watchful and vigilant eye. This state of things had, it appeared, been going on for over a year and a half, during which period the novelist was presumably too much absorbed in his own plots to notice the one at his elbow.

In spite of this vigilance, and in spite, too, of the fact that Saltus is notoriously one of the most careless and indifferent of men, the servants who were appeared in sporting him.

In spite of this vigilance, and in spite, too, of the fact that Salitus is notoriously one of the most careless and indifferent of men, the servants who were engaged in spotting him were unable to testify to anything relevant to a suit for divorce. As a reason for the commission they swore they were to take the next ship for Ireland. This was seven or eight months ago, and yet last week, before the referee was appointed, they were present in court. Mr. Saltus has the right to prosecute them for theft and perjury, and that right he says he proposes to exercise.

Mr. Saltus and si: "I haven't a grievance to my name against Mrs. Saltus. She is charming and I sympathize with her wholly in every one of her imaginary wrongs. I am sorry to have to contend with her, but then, as I shall not call a single witness in my own behalf, I make it all the easter for her to lose the suit. I admit I think it was ill-advised for her to sue me by publication, particularly when a cablegram would have answered as well. It is not a thing I would like a sister of mine to do, or a daughter either, but as she says it was her father's wish it is impossible

THE STONEWORKERS OPPOSED TO THE PROPOSED TRADE SCHOOL

Trades Already Overcrowded and Country Boys Should Not Be Lured to the City ome Mechanics-Reply of the Friends of the Measure.

The stonemasons' and stonecutters' socie ties have begun an opposition to the plans of the Mechanics' Exchange and propose to de-feat the bill now before the legislature of this State to establish a manual training school in hich boys could learn the trades. This is the first opposition manifested against the bill. There are manual training schools for young mechanics in nearly all the large East rn cities operated under the wing of the Mechanics' Exchange. It was the scheme of the Mechanics' Exchange of this city to establish a school and operate it after the new Mechanics' Exchange building was con-The stonecutters and masons object to this for various reasons, and have prepared a petition to be presented to the Legis-lature at once setting forth their objections.

THE PETITION.

THE PETITION.

We protest against the enactment into law of the bill now under consideration to establish a manual training school at the expense of the taxpayers.

We do not think students in such an institution would obtain enough practical information and skill in the trades to benefit them. While they might (as is the design) become handy enough in the use of tools to be invaluable for bosses' purposes in time of trouble. We know the employers' cant about the dignity of labor, its intelligence, etc., to be the veriest hypocrisy, used only to cover ulterior schemes and the most glaring insult to the inmost glaring insult to the in-as they wish only to more completely wd the already overcrowded occupations. The espread tendency of the people to concentrate in widespread tendency of the people to concentrate in the cities and the vast improvements in machinery has rendered the earning of a livelihood in the trades extremely precarious, and we think that an appropriation by the State to enable the numerous unemployed and superfluous tradesmen to go back to their occupations in the country would be wiser than to encourage the farmers' boys to desert their more honorable, because more independent employments, for the fierce competition and trials of the city.

The petition is signed by Frank Noonan, President of the Stopeniasons' Society John

onecutters' Society.
FRIENDS OF THE MEASURE SCARED. The foregoing protest was shown to several of the leading members of the Mechanics' Exchange this morning, all of whom ex pressed surprise at the action taken by the stonemasons. Mr. Henry Feurbach said: "These men are working against their best interests-against the best interests of their They wish, it seems, to force their children to go into the professions which are already overcrowded. This school is needed, and it will not injure the trades unions on whit. Good mechanics are in demand, and no complaint of lack of employment can be made. Therefore it is hard to see the ground upon which this opposition is made. This school would be a good thing for mechanics' sons, who now have no opportunity, owing to the regulahave no opportunity, owing to the regulations imposed by the unions, to learn the trade of their choice. They cannot get an apprenticeship, and therefore drift into the professions, schools for which are to be found in all parts of the State. Not one school in which to learn the trade of a mechanic is to be found, however. The people who are directly interested in this school derive no benefit at the present time from the $217.000 spent in at the present time from the $217,000 spent in ating teachers, farmers and other ches. We pay our proportion of taxes, and id not be denied this school. All foreign countries recognize the necessity of giving the youth of the nation some practica wledge of mechanism along with other studies. Several Eastern States have recog-nized the necessity of such institutions, and have accordingly established them. There is no reason why Missouri shall not do the same. As to overcrowded occucupations, I can say without fear of a well grounded contradiction that there room for mechanics in the variou branches than anything else, The lagricul-tural interests of the State demanded a school, and the result was the model institu-tion at Columbia. The mechanical trades should receive a like recognition. It is my opinion that the Stonemasons' Union, or any other like body that fights the bill, is working against its own best, material interests."

THE SCHOOL BADLY NEEDED.

Mr. Joseph L. Guedry said that the school would not have become a necessity if the trade unions had taken some other mode than the one in vogue to regulate the apprentice sons of the very men who put such rules into

"For instance," said he, "I have a sor myself who desires to become a bricklayer.
It is impossible to get him an apprenticeship for the reason that each boss is allowed only two apprentices. These lucky ones are selected because of relation or some expected favor. Now, I give out a great amount of sub-contracting, yet it is impossible for me to get my own son a position as an apprentice. This school, should it be established, will do away with the first year or two of drudgery on the part of the learner. This is the time that is most dreaded by young men who contemplate dreaded by young men who contemplate echanical trade. It is nonsens to say that the labor market will be or is overcrowded. Good workmen can always get situations, and poor ones must take what they can get by working during the busy season. This is the case in all classes of occupations. But I must say that the school is badly needed and that the stone masons are standing in their own light when they oppose They surely misunderstand the obje this proposed mechanics' training school, as it would raise up young men who would be an nor to their unions and trades."

Mr. C. C. Weaver, an extensive contracting bricklayer, said that he was in favor of the school, provided the unions would not increase the number of apprentices allowed. He thought the unions should be legislated as they "are dictating to a free rn, independent, loving American peo-

It was the general fear that other unions would take up the matter and fight it. This, of course, would make the success of the measure wery doubtful Senator Miller, who represents the labor unions to a certain degree, is at present in favor of the measure, it is claimed by the committee headed by Mr. Feuerbach who visited Jefferson City this week. After several ballots had been taken yesterday afternoon the Republican Judges, Kieln, Fisher, and Withrow, submitted the names of John H. Fisse, Geo. submitted the names of John H. Fisse, Geo Denison, Guido D'Oench, Arnold Beck, Theo. H. Culver and Selden P. Spencer, Theo. H. Cuiver and Seiden F. Spencer, all Republicans, to the Democratic Judges, Dillon, Normile and Valliant, and agreed to vote for either of the gentlemen named whom the Democratic Judges would select.

Judges Dillon, Normile and Valliant replied

ov submitting the following list of Demo andidates for the Republican judges to selec om, agreeing to abide by the decision: Ber-ard Finney, D. O'C. Tracy, Robert Campbell, Fielding Mansfield, Walter Blakely and David H. Armstrong. The Republican Judges evaded the proposition by presenting another to the effect that, inasmuch as their Democratic brethren rally competent he might be, they, the Re oublicans, would vote for a Democrat provided they were salisfied that he was 'well qualified to fill the place and that he would perform his duties with-for the public good and in the interest of the tue administration of justice, to which all of as are bound." This communication was gned by Judges Klein and Fisher. The Democratic Judges retorted rather sharply to the insinuation that they placed party interests above public duty, and to the assumption on the part of the Republican judges that they, the Republicans, were the only ones possessed of a "lofty sense of public duty." f the Republican judges voted for Col. Mans eld, one of the Democratic candidates, Judge Withrow, still voting for his favorite, John

The Council has taken exceptions to the action of Mayor Noonan and City Counselor Bell in the matter of State legislation.

Mr. Bell is now for the second time this sea-son in Jefferson City as the representative of St. Louis, urging the passage of certain measures which relate to St. Louis and to no other one of these measures is to provide putting electric wires underground and regu-lacing the manner in which they shall be put there. To this the Council last night read and then the members expressed their artion of the counselor in going to Jefferson City for the purposes he did.

Mr. Ganahl expressed his disapproval of the

Mr. Cole was of the opinion that the Legislature bill was encroaching upon the rights of the Assembly which had ample power to regulate as much as the State measure to reg-ulate and that it was a decided slight upon the city lawmakers. Mr. Vogel and Mr. Nelson made their ob-

The sentiment of the whole discussion was of a rather aggressive nature and in the nature of censuring the Mayor and the counselor. Finally the bill was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means with instructious to prepare resolutions in accordance with the feelings of the Council.

The situation is very plain, and it is in part owing to the action of the Assembly that the owing to the action of the Assembly that the Jefferson City plan was hit upon.

The Bell Telephone Co. of its own accord came before the Assembly and asked for a franchise for an underground conduit to carry its wires. The bill passed the Council with amendments which the company thought oo burdensome, so they urged the measur no further, and it now rests in the House of in a half-finished condition. Who Senator Stone, ex-member of the House of Delegates, was elected to the State Senate he was fired with a desire to re-arrange the entire city, and among other measures he drew up before he left was one to put all the wires St. Louis underground. His first bill was rawn after consultation with City Counselor

Mr. Bell and the Mayor subsequently put their heads together on the bill for a system of boulevards for this city, and in the course of the consultation the might as well take a hand in the pool bill and the underground wire bill, so City Counselor Bell forthwith went to work. His first visit to Jefferson City some days ago resulted in the introduction of an amend ment to Mr. Stone's bill, which provided that all wires should go under ground except those furnishing motive power for street rail-roads and those carrying current for lights. This narrowed down to a bill for the express regulation of the Bell Telephone Co., and put it in contrast with the one before the Asse bly. Aside from the Bell Telephone Co.'s the only extensive system of wires is that of the Western Union, and these the Legislature cannot control. MATOR NOONAN TALKS.

MATOR NOONAN TALKS.

This amendment was made at the suggestion of Mayor Noonan. He was seen in his office this morning and spoke freely on the situation. He said:

"I desire to state that Mr. Bell went to Jefferson City with my entire approval and I will shoulder the responsibility for all that he does while there. The attitude of the Council is rather peculiar and one which nei the Mr. Bell or I ever considered for an instant as our action was not taken with any view to usurping authority. We are in fact yielding!a usurping authority. We are in fact yielding a good deal of authority. Only the other day approved some appointments made by the President of the Board of Public Improve ents which he had no authority to make of 300,000 population, because we wanted to sas City, as we understood that I the spell. the telephone company there would fight was bowing again, and the applause wa against going under ground. So it clattering. They brought her great bouquet the telephone company there would light against going under ground. So it was arranged that the law should only apply to St. Louis. Then when we thought it over we decided that if the law was made to in-clude all wires there would be a large lobby of street railroad men there to fight it. So it ended again and only the biggest nui sance aimed at. Later on the others could be ttended to. "What we did was done with the best of in tentions and we are ready to stand by our actions to the last, and I do not take the same view of them that the Council does. If there is anything objectionable I think it can be rery easily remedied by the Council and Mr.

Bell talking it over."
Mayor Noonan did not seem at all disturbed by what the Council had said and done. The bill as it now stands is in the hands of the House committee and has not yet beer reported. Mr. Bell presented his argument, yesterday to the committee and the bill was taken under consideration.

The Ovation Given Carmencita at Madison Square Garden.

New York, Jan. 31.—Last night a bail was given in honor of Carmencita and the biggest ball-room in New York City was filled almost to its full capacity by those who had seen and many who had never seen the much talked of woman of the stage. It was a most varied mixture of society. Cornella was there with her attendants, and so was Sappho with hers. The scions of swelldom rubbed elbows that were clad in broadcloth against men who wore short coats and high hats. Young girls who hort coats and high hats. Young girls who never go away from their homes unless at never go away from their homes unless at-tended by chaperons or maids sat in one box, and girls whose lives have been lived chiefly upon the streets and whose breakfasts are eaten late in the afternoon, sat in another. Some of the great gathering were there in all the glory of fashionable evening dress. It had been announced that Carmencita would make her appearance at 10 o'clock. It was probably an hour later when the music from a band of Germans dressed in the costumes of Spanish Dragoons was heard an-ostumes of Spanish Dragoons was heard an-councing the coming of the queen of the evening. Gathered at the Fourth avenue end of the amphitheater, these musicians stood at the door leading to the dressing-rooms. The leader of the band gave a signal and in a moment stepped out upon the floor. A burst of applause came from every part of the house. Behind the yellow-coated musicians stepped a tall, young woman carrying aloft a banner inscribed with the name "Carmen-cita." Then followed boys and girls in the garb of Spanish peasants, young women with dark faces wearing picturesque garments of gypsies, and after them came other Spaniards ch as one might see in Barcelona and

At the very end of the procession came Car-mencita. She sat high up on a dragon charlot drawn by eight costumed men with the pretty girls walking on each side by the wheels. Carmencita was dressed in a gown of white silk, covered with lace and gold. Upon her head she wore a white mantilla. In one hand she carried a fan of ostrich feathers and with the other she held upon ner lap an immense bouquet of red and white roses. There were nearly 200 men, women and girls in the procession, and they were stretched out so as to extend entirely along one side of the garden, so that while the mu-sicians were stepping by the Madison avenue entrance Carmencita was just appearing at the opposite end of the amphitheater. The sight of her was a signal for the loudest applause. Slowly the men drew her charlot along, and as each box was passed, the enthusiasm of the numerous gathering increased. To Carmencita, accustomed to the stage, applause is like champagne, and hose who were near enough to notice could bserve that upon her dark cheeks there ros flush and that from her eyes there shot a mush and that from her eyes there shot a sparkle as the applause fell upon her ears. After the first feeling of exultation had passed Carmencita appeared to take all the rest of the applause with calm-ness. She bowed to right and left like a queen acknowledging the homage of her sub lects. She had a magnificent assemblage ther feet, but she seemed to hink that it was her due. The procession wound around the hall twice and then went up the center toward the dancing platform. Then the strains of the "Cachuca" began and Carmencita took fire. Her body forward until her head nearly touche loor again, sideways, in circles, her feet moving all the while, her skirts flashing and fluttering, her arms swaying and curving. Now the dance was slow and again it was a mad whirl her eyes grew as languorous as her body or slowed in harmony with the culcular movement. with its quieter movements. She seemed to have absorbed all the rhythm of the music embodied it in herself until it was lost and nothing remained but Carmencita, the graceful, the queen of dancers. And the myriad lights were flashing above and around her and the orange and red of the decorations were her background. It was wonderful. She mesmerized the audience. The women of fashion came out of curiosity and, timidly sitting in the rear of the boxes, leaned forward, intent upon her every motion. There ward, intent upon her every motion. embodied it in herself until it was lost and ward, intent upon her every motion. There was no appliause—every one feared to break the spell. The music ceased and Carmencita clattering. They brought her great bouquets and baskets of flowers, tied with the Spanish colors, and she kissed her little hands and bent her head until you could see nothing but the black braids and the two little bunches o white flowers. There was a pause and then the audience applauded at the sound of familiar "San Jago," which is foremost of waltzes in the popular heart. But it was not a simple waltz when Carmencita danced it. First she

She entered the car again, and the procession started. The car led this time. She no lon ger wore the mantilia. Her head was bare except the few white flowers. The blood had mounted to her cheeks in a red glow under her brown skin. Her eyes were sparkling. There was a delicate flush on her white arms. Her white slipper patted the dragon which formed her footstool. There was an expres formed her footstool. There was an expres-sion of child-like triumph and delight in her girlish face. She kissed her hands and waved her arms, touching the top of her head each time. The great masses of red and white flowers, with their red and orange ribbons, were borne before the car. The procession marched around once. Then the band drew to one side and the car disappeared through the old-rose curtained entrance whence it had

CORN FOR EUROPE.

REMARKABLE INCREASE IN THE EXPORT TRADE OF ST. LOUIS.

Observations of a Corn Exporter While on a Trip Abroad—Former Prejudices Against and Present Popularity of American Corn—A Brilliant Prospect.

Last night Peter L. Bushnell of St. James Parish, La., arrived in the city and is at the southern. Mr. Bushnell has long been en gaged not only in sugar planting but also in shipping corn to Europe by way of the gulf.
"The growth of this business within the past two years has been enormous, and the pros-pects are that it will steadily increase. The Europeans are just beginning to appreciate the value of our Indian corn as an article of numan food. Three or four years ago we could only sell to Europe when the crop of animal forage was short and prices were "But as to any sales being made for grinding he corn into meal for bread, it was out of he question. I have made a number of trips the question. I have made a number of trips to Europe, and always took pains to inquire why corn was not so used. The dealers told me that the people did not seem to want cornmeal, and could with difficulty be persuaded to take it. When they did try it they did not know how to prepare it, and thus it remained unpopular. A change in feeling came about at the time of the Paris Exposition. A feature was the baking of corn bread and corn cakes, and distributing them free. The American Bakery became famous, and it was the thing to visit it and eat a few of the hot cakes. Circulars in French, German and Italian Circulars in French, German and Italia were distributed setting forth the merits o corn as a food product, and there soon was quite a rush for it. The poorer classes saw what a boon cheap corn meal would be to them and are using it freely all over France to-day.

EXTENSION OF ITS USE. "In Germany the extension of its use has been even greater. It is astonishing that the poorer classes of Germans have so long neglected cornmeal. They seldom taste white wheat bread, using a disagreeable concoction of rye and poor wheat flour instead, that is in no way to be compared to cornmeal as a food, yet they have year after year stuck to it, and those who endeavored to sell corn meal to them met with no success at all. This is completely changed now. I traveled through Germany last fall, with an eye to business, and made careful inquiries as to the call for and made careful inquiries as to the call for corn meal. I found that along the Baltic coast and in Prussia more was being bought in six months than during any previous ten years and that the demand was steadily increasing. In Southern Gendent was the increase. creasing. In Southern Germany the increas was not nearly so marked, but still there wa a demand for corn, and I believe that it is certain to increase very largely. In fact, we have for the first time got a foothold and can-not fail to capture the European markets. IMPORTANT TO ST. LOUIS.

"This is of great importance to New Orleans as the corn trade will principally go through that city, but it is of vastly more importance to St. Louis, which should be the great center for the entire corn belt. Every one knows how little profit there was in corn growing last year. The price being low and the large, transportation by rail ate up all the profits and there was little or nothing left for the farmer. But with barge transportation from St. Louis to New Orleans, and shipping from there to England, Germany, and France, the farmer can make a very handsome profit. All that has been wanted has been a market on the other side of the cean. This we are beginning to get nd when once fully established there oubt that the trade will increase with rapidity. Corn can be shipped from St. Louis by way of New Orleans considerably cheaper by way of New Orleans considerably cheaper than by way of Chicago and the lakes, and any of your exporters will tell you that their shipments last year were far greater than ever before. If the matter is properly taken up, there is no doubt that St. Louis will become the greatest corn exporting point in the world. The interests of this city and of New Orleans are identical, as we can only hope to become a great corn-shipping point if St. Louis is the distributing point. The two cities ought to work together in the interest of our foreign work together in the interest of our foreign

GOING DOWN TOGETHER.

Only twenty-six working days remain to the Congress elected with President HAR-RISON in 1888. In that time, by attending strictly to the appropriation bills and other necessary legislation, it may render a called session of the succeeding Congress unnecessary, but nothing it can now do will redeem its bad record or lessen by a feather's weight the terrible load of popular condemnation that already rests upon

No other Congress ever more bitterly disappointed its own partisan constituency or ever before incurred such a rebuke at the polls as this one merited and received from the people of all sections of the Union at the November election. When thus assured that it had not only offended the whole country, but defeated and wrecked own recently victorious party deceiving and disappointing its supporters it might have partially retrieved its errors by a graceful change of front in obedience to the sovereign will of the nation. But instead of doing this it has wasted its last session, its last opportunity, in further exhibitions of partisan fury and in futile efforts to bully and coerce the people.

On the 3d of March, therefore, it will pass into history embalmed in perennial odium as the most recklessly revolutionary body that ever met in Washington to efface the venerated landmarks of our system, to destroy local autonomy and substitute force and plutocracy for popular self-government. The people might soon forget the most shocking of its attempts which have failed, but for the fact that years must elapse before they can fully undo what it has actually accomplished in that direction. The burdens it has imposed will long keep us mindful of the heavier ones that would have followed in the train of the gag rule and the force bill.

With this Congress passes away Mr. HARRISON'S chance for a second term. He is so fully identified with its blunders and failures and so hopelessly involved in the condemnation it has incurred, that both will have to be thrown over together before the party can make any hopeful effort to reunite its scattered, disgusted and disheartened forces. The latter are going over to the Farmers' Alliance in such multitudes now as to suggest the possibility that most of the old party will be absorbed in the new one before 1892, unless the fatuous blundering of the new party's leaders or of the Democrats in the next Congress shall enable BLAINE to recall the deserters to the old party entrenchments from which HARRISON and REED and Mc-KINLEY have led them to defeat.

THE STATE AS A ROADMAKER.

Missouri wants better country roads. Every industry in the State would be better off if every farmer in the State could haul a full load of produce on a good macadamized road from his home to his railroad station or county seat any day of the year. Some good system of State aid might start a novement that would produce the desired With such a basis for a beginning supplementary aid from the counties would stimulate individual action and the rivalry of different neighborhoods and local road le petit pere, organizations would do the rest.

But the suggestion that the State shall, with convict labor or otherwise, undertake the construction of a system of improved common roads extending to every county, involves manifold delays and practical difficulties. Before the days of railroads in Europe the common roads were national highways, carrying all the internal commerce and travel, and were laid out and improved by the State for military as well as for industrial purposes. Now all long distance travel and transportation in this country goes by rail, and the use of common roads is almost excation" in his coat pocket, and he will clusively local. A macadamized road enhances the value of contiguous land so much more than any other land lying back from it in the same neighborhood, that the chief cost of making such roads devolves now on the owners of fronting property, and on the villages to which the road brings trade. To go at the work practically we will have to leave the laying out, construction and maintenance of such roads mainly to local use and interest, backed by such partisan considerations to a high sense of county and State aid as will best promote the work. If the State should undertake to furnish the labor, which county should get it first and which have to wait and be the hundredth in line? Why should one of the counties in the "Sunken Lands" go without roads and bridges during the years when the convicts are making roads for the counties adjacent to the State capital?

THE Democratic organs are puffing Gor-MAN's brilliant management in the force bill fight in a style of glorification very similar to that with which the Republican organs deluged QUAY after the Republican victory in 1888. Senator GORMAN is a better debater and a better informed statesman than QUAY, but he represents the same element in politics on one side that QUAY represents on the other, the Money Power. with all its crooked methods, and the Democrats may find that he can make more Kansas ticket for the Republican nomination in 1892 will be BLAINE and INGALIS on a free coinage platform, with tariff reduction, reciprocity and such further antiplutocratic trimmings as may best serve to take the wind out of the Alliance sails. This will keep INGALLS prominent till the time for electing a successor to PLUMB.

WITH Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Mich. igan, New York and New Jersey Legisla tures giving the same notice that was sent out by Southern Legislatures that they would wait for the defeat of the force bill before voting appropriations for State ex hibits at the World's Fair it looks as if the Democratic North is as much opposed to that bill as the South. For the firs time since the war the North has elected s majority of Democrats to Congress, and they were elected to oppose that bill as an attempt to bulldoze Northern elections.

ONE of Senator INGALLS' campaign man agers is quoted as saying that the Senator forbid the purchase of votes for his re-election on the ground that he had enjoyed the highest honor his State could give him and did not want to run any risk of giving pain to his family or causing scandal. That sort of ground for not bribing legislators is worthy of the man who sneered at the notion that there are such things as morality and purity in politics.

WHEN the French Republic attains to a full measure of popular free government it will not be bothered with such trivial concerns as the suppression of plays which deal with political subjects. The practical wisdom of non-interference with the stage or the press except to preserve the peace and protect public morals is proved by the fact that the suppression of "Thermidor" has caused more commotion than its per-

Smith & Sons Ice & Fuel Co., a corporation duly created and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Illinois and doing business in the city of St. Louis aforesaid, did then and there by virtue of his said office of treasurer of said corporation, have, receive and take into his possession and under his care certain money and bank-notes in the sum of $30,000, lawful money of the United States of the value of $30,000; which said money and bank notes were then and there the property of and belonged to the said James A. made out in the office of Clerk Pattison and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Tom Skidmore. During the afternoon Skidmore was down town, but could not locate Mr. Smith. Knowing that Mr. Smith's custo was to take the Iron Mountain accommodation for his home in Carondelet, he proceeded about 5 o'clock to the Union Depot. Smith, however, failed to put in an appearance and the officer went on to Carondelet. Learning at the defendant's residence, on South Broadway, that he was still in the city, Skidmore waited. About 90'clock Mr. Smith arrived, having taken a South St. Louis electric car. The warrants were at once read and the defendwarrants were at once read and the derend-ant placed under arrest. Mr. Smith said nothing whatever in regard to the charge, only remarking that it was hard to be taken away from home at that hour of the night. At the prisoner's earnest solicitation the deputy refrained from placing him in jail and spent the night with him in a down-town hotel. At 8 o'clock this morning Mr. Smith was taken to the Four Courts and given in charge of a deputy with instructions to remain behind the railing in the Sheriff's office. He was there seen by a representative of the Post-Disparch, to whom he said:

"I am more than surprised at this prosecu-tion. It is nothing more or less than a business complication and I cannot, for the life of me, see why the Grand-jury should have returned these indictments. It is just this way—Mr.Chouteau went into the business with the idea of getting half the profits. We willing to stand his share of the loss. present I am unable to give you many of the letails of our transactions. The partnership was made for the summer of 1889, Mr. Chouteau agreed to purchase a half-interest n the concern of the James A. Smith & Sons Ice & Fuel Co., putting into the business $31,250. We deposited in the bank as collateral two notes each for $81,250, and as fast as we were enabled to get any money on hand we paid off the indebtedness. Our office was in room 210, Chamber of Commerce. fice was in room 210, Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Chouteau had his book-keeper, Mr. Taylor, always on hand, and in addition was rendered a monthly report of every pound of ice sold and every dollar collected. It was a bad year for business, however, and our losses were heavy. Not only were we compelled to sell at a loss, but when the season closed we had on hand an immense quantity of ice, which was then of little or no value. The notes became due and Mr. Chouteau objected to accepting his share of the obligation and brought suit against me in the Circuit Court. to accepting his share of the obligation and brought suit against me in the Circuit Court. On the judgment for some $30,000, which he obtained, he levied on all of my property and literally ruined me. He so tied up my affairs that I have been unable to realize on anything and am now a bankrupt. If Mr. Chouteau had only given me time I could have straightened matters out mpt. MR. CHOUTEAU SEEN. Immediately following the news of the ar-rest of Mr. Smith a reporter of the Post-DISPATCH called on Mr. Charles P. Chouteen for a statement of the business troubles lead-ing to the Grand-jury indictments for fraud and embezziement against the formen "Ice King," as Smith was known for years. Mr. Chouteau was found in his office in the Gay Building, and said: "I did not know that Smith had been arrested. I presume, of course, the arrest was made upon charges arising from his dealings with me, as I have testified before the Grand-Jury as to such dealings. I have no interest in the as to such dealings. I have no interest in th matter at present, however, as I have turned my claim against Smith over to my son papers, containing dates, amount involved, etc., and a full history of the case." Lawyer Reyburn was seen and his story of Smith's dealings with Mr. Chouteau, result-ing in heavy financial loss to the latter gen-tleman, brings to light one of the most re-markable series of "business" transactions naginable. The peculiar nature of Smith's aethods in the Chouteau matter were partially ventilated by the papers at the time of the failure of the Jas. A. Smith & Son's Ice & Fuel Co., but the decidedly interesting de-tails have never before been published. "In March, 1889," said the attorney, "owing to representations of his business made to Mr. Chouteau by Smith, Mr. Chouteau in-dorsed two notes for the Jas. A. Smith Ice & Smith, Sr., one being discounted by the Franklin Bank and one by the State Savings Frankin Bank and one by the State savings Association, now the State Bank of St. Louis, the notes being made for $31,250 each. They matured Nov. 12, 1889, and at that time, some payments having been made on them in the meantime, there was a balance due on the total amo of nearly $50,000, being about equally divided on the two notes. On the date of maturity the notes were protested for non-payment, and Mr. Chouteau immediately began attach-ment proceedings. On the following day, Oct. 13, 1889, an assignment of the James mith & Sons Ice & Fuel Co. was made in Belleville, Ill., the company having been or ganized under the laws of Illinois. The as-signment was only of the corporation itself, there being no assignment of the three Smiths, father and sons who formed the company, so that whether they were solvent or insolvent did not ap-pear, and nothing could be obtained from Some little money was realized fro the attachment of property belonging to th mpany, but it was extremely difficult to and anything or even to get into the com any's safe for a time, as for several day, following the attachment proceedings the miths were invisible. It appears that the ecessary papers for the assignment of the company had been prepared for some time before the two notes matured, so that the crash was evidently expected and gotten

A REMARKABLE PAILURE. Now comes a remarkable feature of the case. James A. Smith, Sr., just prior to the assignment, had received from various sources large amounts of money, aggregating $28,500, part of which were assets the company. None of this money was found after the assignment, and in his evidence given before Special Commissioner George W. Stewart in the course of the in-vestigation following the attachment pro-ceedings Smith told a wonderful story acounting for its disapperrance.

'He claimed that on Nov. 11, 1889, the very day before the two notes fell due, he lost the entire amount on the streets of St. Louis. The money, according to his story, was in a large wallet in the inside pocket of his vest, and was in bills of the following denominations: twenty-seven bills of $1,000 each, and three of $500 each. Smith in his testimony stated that he took this money from the safe on the morning of November 11, and leaving the office of the company in the Chamber of Commerce building, started for the Safe Deposit Co. on Sixth and Locust streets. Before arriving there he found that it was too early to leave the money in a Sate Deposit vault, as the doors of that concern were not then open. Having some business to attend to at a sawpiling establishment on Chouteau avenue, he went down to that place, where he paid out some money for the company. He then returned, intending to deposit the $28,500 with the Safe Deposit Co., but upon arriving at Fourth and Olive on his way back, found that the wallet had been lost from his inside vest pocket.

A SERIES OF STRANGE EVENTS. "I spoke of the remarkable events of the week in which the Smith company failed. Let me run over those events. On Sunday, Nov. 10, according to the story of James A. the East Side Roads Could Handle Business on This Side of the River-Unfair Discrimination Against This City in Rates.

At least one great reform in railroad ship ping promises to grow out of the war in-augurated by the Jacksonville Southeastern road. Small and despised by its competitors little road is, it has nevertheless been the cause of creating a movement which is apt to prove of great benefit to the city. That is the direct billing of freight through St. Louis. This road has not been responsible for this reform, t has brought matters to noon about twenty prominent St. Louis wholesale grocers held a meeting at 507 North Second street for the purpose of endeavoring to get the railroads to build freight warehouses on this side and bill freight through to this city, instead of meeting billing it to East this city instead of merely billing it to East their terminus. In this way they will not only secure the recogni-tion of St. Louis as a terminus and the ben-efit of the advertising which now goes to East St. Louis, but they will also avoid much delay and have their freight brought to where it can be handled more conveniently and to etter advantage.

THE GROCERS' RESOLUTIONS.

At their meeting yesterday afternoon the grocers passed resolutions commending to the favorable consideration of every railroad naving a terminus at East St. Louis. and having a terminus at East St. Louis, and having the prosperity of St. Louis in view, the action of the Jacksonville Southeastern Line in making rates from St. Louis the same as from East St. Louis. The resolutions state that this is a simple act of justice on the part of the Jacksonville Southeastern line which is highly appreciated and recognized as the first break in the line of discrimination against St. Louis trade from which it has sufssion similar to that of the Jacksonville Southeastern is demanded of other lines. St. Louis has been a way station too long, the resolutions state, and the bridge arbitrary is denounced and justice for St. Louis is de-A committee was appointed by the meeting to present copies of the preamble and resolutions to the local managers of rail-

RATES FROM ST. LOUIS AND CHICAGO.
Assistant General Freight Agent Nixon of the Jacksonville line makes some interesting mparisons of the rates enjoyed by St. Louis and Chicago to Illinois points. Chicago is 215 ville were: First class, 37.6 cents; second class, 30.55 cents; third class, 24.62 cents; class, 30.55 cents; third class, 24.62 cents; fourth class, 18.33 cents; fifth class, 14.66 cents. The rates from St. Louis cost the shipper, Mr. Nixon says, about 5 cents more on the first three classes and 4 cents on the next two, making rates from St. Louis proper: First class, 42.6c; second class, 35.55c; third class, 29.62c; fourth class, 22.33c; fifth class, 18.66c. Since the publication of the Jackson-ville Southeastern Line tariff, the rates from their freight depot, corner Main and Ashley streets St. Louis proper, are 32c, 27c, 22c, 18c, streets St. Louis proper, are 32c, 27c, 22c, 18c, 14c, a reduction of 10.6c, 8.55c, 7.62c, 4.88c, 4.68c.

The rates from Chicago to Jacksonville which have not been changed, are: Firs which have not been changed, are: First class, 47c; second class, 38c; third class, 29c; fourth class, 20c; fifth class, 15c, or 4.4c higher than St. Louis on first class, 3.45c higher than St. Louis on second class; .62c lower than St. Louis on third class; 2.33c lower on fourth class and 8.66c lower on fifth class.

Springfield is 185 miles from Chicago and ninty-six miles from St. Louis. Prior to Monday rates from East St. Louis to Spring-field were: First-class, 38.42c; second-class, 81.2c; third-class, 24.9c; fourth-class, 18.8c; 81.2c; third-class, 24.3c; touch cost of transfifth-class, 15c. Add to this the cost of transfer and the old rates from St. Louis proper approximate: First-class, 43.54c; second-class, 86.2c; third-class, 29.9c; fourth-class, 22.9c; fifth-class, 190. The rates from Jack-sonville Southeastern line depot, Main and Ashley, St. Louis to Springfield are now: First class, 32c; second class, 27c; third-class 22c; fourth-class, 18c; fifth-class, 14c; a reduction of 11.54c 9 2c, 7 cc.

A gentleman connected with a leading East side road when asked about the practicability of billing goods through to St. Louis, remarked: "My individual opinion is that it can be done, though I do not care to speak officially on the subject. In fact, my personal experience in railroads is that the roads can do anything they wish to do. I never knew a rule or a law which they could not get around if they wanted to do so. It is my personal belief not only that the roads on the east side of the river can build warehouses over here and bill freight through to this city instead of East St. Louis, but it is my belief that this will be done. Of course it St. Louis, but it is my this will be done. Of this will be done. Of course it could not be done immediately. The roads at present have not facilities for handling business on this side. Thes will have to have freight warehouses here. They will have these things, however, within a few years. What do the purchases of land in the north end of the city by the Wabsel. Penerstrania. north end of the city by the Wabash, Pennsylvania, Louisville & Nashville, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and Jacksonville-Southeastern lines mean? Why, that these roads all mean to build Jacksonville roads all mean to freight ware-houses on this side of the river and bill goods through to St. Louis instead of East St. Louis and it will only be a question of time until all other roads do likewise. They will have to. At first it would be considerable of an expense to the roads to do this, expense to the roads to do this, expense to the roads to do this, as property is high on this side of the river and the roads will have to buy their property right down town where they will be convenient to the shippers. Once started, however, the cost would be less than at present for the roads could do as they do in Chicago—do their switching co-operatively. They could employ one set of employes to handle the business for all and each contribute so many locomotives and bear their share of the expenses of operating. By all working under one management the cost of each would be less than if they worked separately. I will go even further and say that this is what should be done, not only that, but the bridge arbi-UNFAIR RATES.

100 per cent and other rates to other points based according to the relative distances these points are from New York. East St. Louis is made 116 per cent, it being so much further from New York proportionately than Chicago. In addition to this 118 per cent the St. Louis merchants have to pay the bridge arbitrary and transfer charges.

OTHER OFINIONS.

Other railroad men who were seen admitted the praticability of billing freight through to St. Louis and having warehouses on this side, although they claimed it would not the roads to expense, and most of them endeavored to argue that it would not benefit St. Louis any. The objection that it would make the business come under the Interstate Commerce Commission applied only to shipments from points in Illinois or local business, as it is called. Anything shipped from points the other side of Illinois would be interstate business anyhow.

venient to them than it would be on this side away up in the Mill Creek Valley, where the most of the warehouses would naturally be. It would be impossible to do the business here at present, as we have not the warehouse capacity here, and it is difficult and expensive to get ground properly located. Still the thing could be done, of course, but not until the roads get warehouses on this side. It would render their East side places valueless, or practically so, but once located here and the necessary ground acquired the business could be done at to them than it would be on ground acquired the business could be don on this side as well as on the other. The Commissioners' Powers.

Speaking of the meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the new Western Traffic Association, the Chicago Times of yesterday says: "The announcement that the territorial boundaries of existing associations had been adopted by the commissioners was not only corroborated yesterday, but it was said by one who is on the inside that at the advisory board meeting in New York consisting of the President and one member of the Board of Directors from each line represented, a set of instructions had been adopted and signed directing not only how the territory in the association should be divided, but by whom the several districts should be officered. The instructions went further. They cover the whole plan of operation in detail, and leave nothing for the lieutenants, the six commissioners — Messrs. Walker, Finley, Midgley, Faithorn, Smith and Vining—to do but put the plan into operation. "The commissioners have nothing to do," said the informant, "but follow the instructions given by the presidents."

These instructions have never been given given by the presidents.'

These instructions have never been given to the newspapers and have never been made public. The agreement given to the press was all that the public knew about the matter. The meeting of traffic managers two weeks ago was a ruse. It was not intenthat they should do anything save meet and formally transmit the completion of the arrangement to the six commissioners who had not only been chosen by the presidents, but whose jurisdiction and duties had been defined in the secret instructions. The transfer of Chairman Smith from the transcontinental to the transmissouri division and the lopping off of certain lines from the Pacific coast territory and adding them to the Missouri River territory was a part of the plan which had been reduced to type long before the date of the last meeting in New York

York.

The work of the commissioners is, therefore, reduced to details. * * * Another funny feature in the arrangement is the funny feature in the arrangement is the clause retaining the existence of former associations for the benefit of those lines that refused to join the Western Traffic Association. In other words, the Western States Freight and Passenger Associations are to be kept up for the benefit of the Alton, the Maple Leaf and the Memphis systems. The association will be a wheel within a wheel. Each chairman will be a commissioner and seek-commissioner. will be a commissioner and each commis-sioner will be at the head of one of the old or-ganizations in order to keep the rejuctant roads in line.

a few facts were obtained which tended to show the man's identity. His name was John Mueller, 52 years old and a native of Bavaria. At the outbreak of the war he was employed as a printer and enlisted ia the First Missouri Cavalry under 601. Ellis, serving throughout the war. Since that time he has been living in St. Louis. The unfortunate man was unable to give his address, but persisted that it made no difference, as he was not wanted where he had been living.

Mr. Lucas put the stranger in the hands of officer Fowell, and the two started for the City Dispensary. On the way Muelier called attention to his G. A. R. buttons and hat cord. He said he was a member in good standing of the Grand Army, but could not tell the name of his post. A faulty memory seemed to constitute his insanity. Drs. WEBSTER GROVES SYNDICATE PURCHAS-ING TRACTS FOR SUBDIVISION.

The Helfenstein Property to Be Cut Up-Sales and Public Improvements in Tyler Place—King's Highway, Opposite Tower Grove, Sells at $35 a Foot.

A local syndicate of St. Louis business men residing at Webster Groves have formed a and corporation for the purchase, develop cluding the old, well-known and handsomely chief promoters of this enterprise N. D. Thompson, a son-in-law John P. Helfenstein, deceased. He and the parties interested with him propose to subdivide the Helfenstein property and convert it in connection with other contig-uous bodies of land, into building sites suitable for suburban residence places. able for suburban residence places. The plan proposed for the improvement of the property is quite an extensive one. It provides for a place laid out in park style with winding drives and footways which will divide the land into very convenient and prettly shaped building lots of fifty feet front to an acre or more in dimensions. The whole area is to be sewered and provided with an ample supply of water by the Meramec Heights Water Power & Electric Light Co. This corporation is also to supply the new This corporation is also to supply the new subdivision with electric lights for illuminatring the avenues and for domestic purposes.

Parties living near this proposed new station, or who own property close to it will be much pleased and benefited by the general plan of improvement, as such betterments will not only afford additional facilities and conveniences for reaching the city, but add materially to the desirability and value of their possessions.

These plans are not generally known. They have been kept secret as possible to enable the projectors of the enterprise to obtain all the land wanted at reasonable prices before the ideas of parties they wanted to buy from became too inflated as to prospective values. It is stated, however, that Charles Parsons' land, seventy-five acres in extent, has been each well, when here deep the lack some has been actually purchased and the Jackso tract of forty-five acres also. In addition to this a reliable informant says options securing the purchase of other properties extending west on both sides of the railway to the edringhaus home place at Glendale Station have already been obtained. From this statement of the negotiations it appears that all the acre property well adapted to subdivision on both sides of the Missouri Pacific as far west as Glendale has been bought up.

LIEUT. SCHWATKA DEAD.

Passes Away.

Mason City, Ia., Jan. 81.—Lieut. Schwatka is still in a precarious condition with about even chances for life and death, On Thursday he arrived in this city. Friday afternoon he hired a man to drive him about the city. He returned to his hotel about three o'clock and was going up to his room when near the top of the stairs he reeled over the banister and fell a distance of ten feet to the floor striking on his face and shoulders, his body hitting a trunk. His nose was broken in three places and several ribs fractured. He was also injured internally. Concussion of the brain is feared. His wife and several of his relatives have been summoned.

A special meeting of the Queen's Daughters was held yesterday afternoon at St. John's Library Hall. It was largely accommenders showed an increase of fifty new members showed an increase of fifty new members. The small banks Library Hall. It was largely attended and since the last meeting. The small banks which a large number of the ladies had had which a large number of the ladies had had for the past two months in which to catch stray pennies and dimes, were opened and about $200 were thus realized. Rt. Rev. Father Brady, Vicar-General, presided and several visiting clergymen were present. Father Brady stated that the work was most highly appreciated and indorsed by the clergy of the city, and there are many applications for opening pass schools. plications for opening new schools in the more densely settled parishes. One was organized at this meeting for St. Patrick's Parish which will begin active work at once. The other applications must be set aside until more funds are realized. The president secretary and treesure. ized. The president, secretary and treasurer all made very encouraging reports. Though the membership and funds meet existing demands, the field is so large and the needs so great, where the administrations of this soclety have not yet reached, that the Queen's Daughters are naturally eager and zealous to encompass the whole work. A most inter-esting paper, entitled "Helping the Poor," composed and read by Mrs. Rose Fanning, principal of the Pestalozzi School, made each one present feel ready for new deeds of charity and mercy. It was a most graceful blending of fact and philosophy with poetic and

HE CHANGED THE CHECKS.

Trunks.

The arrest of Theodore Vincent and Wm. Jones by Officers Curtin and Schlufstein a fe days ago promises to turn out better than was expected. It seems, from a written con operations are very peculiar. He says that he would first steal a large number of checks at some small station, then go to a city depot, pick out a trunk that looked valuable and change the check, retaining the duplicate of the one put on the trunk. He confesses to having operated all over the country—in San Francisco, Denver, Kansas City and St. Louis. A Hitch That May Prevent the Gibbon Bowen Fight - New York to Have Another Big Go-as-You-Please Contest

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 .- "Buck" Ewing, accompanied by his wife, arrived from Cincinnati at 6 o'clock last night. In the evening he called on Vice-President E. B. Talcott and they talked over the situation. Finally terms were agreed on, by which Ewing will be the head and front of the New York team next eason. He did not sign a contract last special hurry, now that he and the New York

"The New York team next season, "will be the strong est that has ever represented city. It will be strong at every point. I would like to see Denny kept at third base because he is, when in condition in my judgment, the best of all third men. Last season he played hard ball, but that was because he did not take care of himself. As to O'Rourke there are many worse players than he. Be-sides being a good player he is sober and re-liable, which is much to any player's advantage. How about the Brooklyn team? Well, now Ward seems to be kicking rather high. The team will stand no show with New York if it is notigreatly strengthened. Whereithey will get the players to strengthen it is a mystery to me. You can' put it down that the Nev York team will be among the leaders, even if five clubs have already won the champ

THE BROOKLYN CLUB.

The Brooklyn Club is making an effort to get together a team that will win the National League championship. John M. National League championship. John M. Ward, who has been secured by Byrne, will have full control of the team on the field. Mr. Byrne has already six of his old men under contract. Tom Daly, Gorge Pinkney, Hub Collins, George Smith, Tom Lovett and Darby O'Brien signed with him at the close of last season. Dave Foutz, Bob Caruthers, Will Terry and Tom Burns are also expected to put heir names down before many days. It is also said that Hemming and Kinslow have signed contracts, but Kinslow denies his side of the affair, claiming that he has not yet come to terms. It is said Catcher Daly will receive a salary of $5,200 for the sea-son, and that Bushong and Clark, the other catchers of the club will be released. An efort is also being made to secure Bierbauer, who is to-day the best second baseman in the country and who is reported to have signed with Pittsburg. THE RING. don letter to the Cincinnati Enquire

A London letter to the Cincinnati Empairer says: The most interesting thing connected with the British prize-ring is the coming battle between Peter Maher, Irish champion, and Gus Lambert of New York. Both men are in active training, and the matter is creating a big stir among the "fancy." The Pelican Club will give a purse of £200. Tony Sage, the Irish sport, is backing Maher. The other night I went to see Lambert at his work and was astounded at the improvement he has miade. Mitchell has eliminated that crook from Gus' left arm, and now the hand aims out straight from the shoulder. His right is just the thing, and if it ever gets in the region of the Irishman's jaw he won't want many more punches. Lambert and Mitchell box every afternoon and indulge in a lot of catch as catch can wrestling. This takes the fat off both men, but the British boxing champion is benefited most by the exercise and already looks fit to fight to a finish. Lambert will be in good condition on the night of the fight, and if he follows Mitchell's advice he is sure to be in good form.

the inght, and if he follows all chells advice he is sure to be in good form.

NUNC WALLACE IN TROUBLE.

'Nunc' Wallace has been in serious trouble of late, but he managed to get out of it by the expenditure of a considerable sum of money. The English bantam champion got drunk and beat an inoffensive stranger over the head with his walking stick. The consequence was the arrest of the pugllist. The prosecution wanted the assailant punished, but the "Beak" suspended sentence so as to give Wallace a chance to come to some arrangement with the prosecution.

The fight between Scotty Cox and Eugene Hornbacker on Coney Island Thursday night was a rather unconventional affair. According to an account from New York a big purse had been promised these cracks, but they found when too late that the purse was wind.

They refused to fight without a stake of some kind and the hat was passed around three times and the sum total realized was $7, three English pennies, a plugged nickel, two brass buttons and four broken collar buttons. At buttons and four broken collar buttons. At first they refused to fight, but finally got mad at each other and concluded to fight anyhow. There were no ropes or stakes, so a ring was formed by men sitting on chairs. Sugar Murphy was time-keeper for Hornbacker, and said he had forgot to bring with him the watch with which he kept time in the Heenan-Sayers fight. Some one lent him a Waterbury, and it exploded in the second round, nearly killing the bottle-holder. Jimmy Lynch, time-keeper for Cox, curiously enough had forkeeper for Cox, curiously enough had for-gotten to bring his split-second repeater. He said he had loaned it to his father's brother. The fight began and Cox sent his left into Hornbacker's face repeatedly with-out return. In the third round Hornbacker's right eye was partially closed, but he was swinging away in great shape and landing swinging away in great shape and landing every time. Hornbacker got in three effective blows in the fifth round, and in the sixth the spectators broke through the ring. Hornbacker repeatedly punched Cox in the seventh, and there was wild disorder in the eighth, both men fouling. In the ninth, amid yells of "Foul!" Jack Adler decided the least it rever of Cox engaging that Hornfight in favor of Cox, announcing that Horn-backer had fouled his opponent. GIBBONS AND BOWEN MAY NOT FIGHT.

There is a strong probability that the match between Austin Gibbons of Paterson, N. J., and Andy Bowen of New Orleans will be declared off, says the New York Sun. The art-leles of agreement which were signed by Bowen and Gibbon's representative stipu-late that the men shall fight at 133 pounds, give or take two pounds, and weigh in five his mind about this clause and now refuses to fight unless the weighing in is done five minutes before the fight. He also says that unless Gibbons will agree to weigh in at the time specified entirely nucle he will not fight him. The articles of agreement were perfectly satisfactory to Bowen prior to the Dempsey-Fitzsimmons fight. A number of sporting men who were present at the Gibbons-Cushing fight told him of the disparity in weight that existed behours before the battle. Bowen has changed easily fight as a middle weight if he so de-sired. He is much taller and longer in the reacht than. Bowen, and, in addition to this, is cleverer. These facts have been impressed upon Bowen's mind by several of the visiting Northern sporting men, and Jack Dempsey's parting injunction to 'Bantam,' by which name Bowen is familiarly known, was not to fight unless the weighing in clause was changed. Both Austin Gibbons and the Gibbon brother and manager, Jim are shrewd match-makers, and bons, are shrewd match-makers, and, want the long end of the rope every time. When Gibbons left for New Orleans a little over a week ago he weighed about one hundred and forty-six pounds. It is thought by those who know him that he will be unable to get down to weight and be strong. He will make a strong fight for the articles of agree gent to be carried out, and in the event of lowen's refusal to fight will undoubtedly laim the forfeit.

BILLIARDS. John North, the Bristol expert, has taken up the gauntlet thrown down to billiardists recently by John Roberts, Jr., in his sensarecently by John Roberts, 3r., in his sensa-tional challenge to play any expert in the world spot-barred billiards, 24,000 points up, conceding 12,000 start to his adversary, the match to be for $5,000. North covered Rob-erts' deposit of $100 on Jan. 19 in the office of the London Sporting Life after the champion had made the concession that the game should be ession that the game should be the concession that the game should be played with the "ordinary livory billiard balls." trance fees and traveling expenses, so there may be a light club representation at the coming meetings of the Boston A. A. and Ruffalo A. C.

A special meeting of the club to hear the reports of the treasurer and Athletic Committee has been called for to-morrow night, which is likely to be lively. The cause of the trouble seems to be about a note for $15,000 issued by Mr. Gedney, then the club's treasurer and an officer of the North River Bank, which the latter discounted, and the amount which the latter discounted, and the amount was on deposit there at the time the bank closed its doors. That note will shortly be presented for payment, so the club, by the unfortunate transaction, is likely to be a beary loss?

unfortunate transaction, is likely to be a heavy loser.

The members who asked for the special meeting referred to will make, it is said, an effort to prevent the club from taking up the note, or rather to prevent the club from suffering to that amount. They hold that the committee had no right to issue the note till given the authority to do so. This opinion is even shared by some of the committee, who feel that it may be necessary for them to put their hands in their pockets and make good the amount. A committee to look into the whole matter may be the result of the meeting to morrow night.

A MILLIONAIRE IN RAGS.

The Experience of a Wealthy California on a European Tour.

YORK, Jan. 31.-Weak, ema vearing ragged clothes and bearing the gen ral appearance of a tramp, Alexander Vonein, a Napa City (Cal.) millionaire, was landed at the barge office yesterday with 485 Italians from the steamship Burgundla from Naples, and told of a European trip taken for pleasure and health, which almost resulted in his death after he had first been robbe and sent to prison as a vagrant. On landing Mr. Vonein was registered and then went to the Custom-house and presented a letter of introduction which he carried from the United States Consul at Marseilles to Collector Enhardt, telling the story of his trais and tribulations. The Consul asked that he be assisted to his home, which the Collector did. Vonein's story is that about five months ago he left his palatial residence in Napa City, by advice of his physicians, and went to Ital; for the good of his health. With him he tool $5,000 in gold currency and over a dozen let-ters of introduction from California and New York business men, commending him to the good graces of their correspondents on the other side. He reached Italy safely and after other side. He reached Italy safely and after wandering about for some time and making a prolonged istay in Genon he listened to a voice which described in glowing colors the beauties of Monte Carlo. He dicided to visit the place and one night packed his gripsack. This done, he went out for a stroll and was waylaid, beaten and relieved of his money, jewelry, letters of introduction and even his coat, hat and waistcoat. He was found insensible by the spolice and was being removed to a hospital when he came to his senses and instucted the police to carry him to his home. Efforts were made by the police to catch the robbers, but nothing was recovered. He concluded that he could not continue to live at his expensive lodgings and started to beg his way to Nite, eating the food that he received from th peasants. On arrival at that health resort and seaport city, Mr. Vonein thought that at last he was in the hands of friends. Again he was mistaken, for when the police caught sight of the dirty, ragged and enfeebled fel-low he was arrested as a tramp and sen-tenced to thirty days in prison. He protested to the judge that he was an honorable man, but the officials refused to pay attention to him. Even when he told the story of the robbery they laughed and jeered at him. He served his term and then tramped to Marseilles, where application to the American Consul, were with a hearty response and he consul met with a hearty response and he was shipped to New York.

WHY HE WENT To See the Only McNichols.

I'm crazy, Dick, as any man Whose case the doctors puzzled;
I'm like a mad dog with a can—
You ought to see me muzzled.
Why! do you know Belinda's folks
Are coming out to visit;
They'll find my home and money—
As for my house, where is it?

Inever dramed of this, by jove;
Each week we write a letter
And speak of our fine heating stoves,
And each room looking better.
Beiinda's maw'chain lightning, Dick;
She'll sure drop on my racket.
I've piled the luxury on so thick
With nothing now to back it.

Why, William! what a goose, my boy;
Go ask your wife her wishes;
Prepare this visit to enjoy
And eat from your own dishes.
Go tell McNichols-for I saw
Last week how young folks settle,
And you can meet your mother-in-law
With just the proper mettle.

Saved! shrieked poor William, half in tear He had not heard about it. He cried to think that all these years He'd struggled on without it. This generous thing—a home it starts, Not for false heir and claimants; A place for rest and happy hearts, Begun by weekly payments.

Of course! Why didn't be think of it before? No se being homeless when you can surround your wife nd children with comforts bought on the easy weekylan from your best friend. (Trade Mark.) THE ONLY M'NICHOLS, 1015, 1022, 1024 Market Street.
